A Futuristic View of the Village – from 1909

The turn of a decade is a good time to take stock of where we are and make some predictions for the future. Pictured below is a popular postcard from the early 1900s, bursting with optimism for what lies in store for New Hampton. With any luck, a resident of 1912 would soon be able to take a trolley to Bristol, soar over Mt. Cardigan in a dirigible, shoot off to Laconia on the skyway, or even take the subway to Ashland. It is hard to know the destination of the UFO that hovers over the trolley to Bristol, but perhaps it would transport folks to Concord... or Manchester... or even Boston! Best wishes for 2020 and beyond!
