Gordon-Nash Library Benefit Concert/Silent Auction

Please join us on Sunday, June 24 at 2 pm at the Gordon-Nash Library on Main Street in New Hampton for an afternoon of music, art, and floral design. The afternoon will feature local cello-piano duo Doug Kendall and Martha Shepp who will perform selections from Brahms, Vivaldi, and local composer Dave Lockwood.

Martha Shepp has been studying piano privately since childhood. She got hooked on accompanying musicians when she played piano along with her school choir in third grade, long before her feet could reach the pedals. She holds BFA and MFA degrees from the Minneapolis College of Art and Design and the University of Tennessee. She continues to support the education of young artists at The New Hampton School in New Hampton, where she currently teaches. Doug Kendall studied cello at Boston University with Leslie Parnas and has played for forty years. He became involved in music as a child and has continued his musical endeavors as he currently plays in the Lakes Region String Quartet. He teaches Latin at Holderness School in Holderness, NH.

Several local artists have donated paintings and artwork, which will be on sale at a silent auction as part of this event. A Fritz Robbins print, a handmade nutcracker, paintings from local artists, a free portrait, and Fisher Cats tickets are some of the items for sale at the silent auction. Members of the New Hampton Garden Club's floral design group will have floral arrangements on display as part of a Books and Blooms exhibit. The designs will also be sold as part of the silent auction. All sales directly benefit the many programs offered at the Gordon-Nash Library.

Please join us for a lovely afternoon of soothing music, beautiful art, and refreshments for both the body and the soul.

Donations will graciously be accepted at the door.
